1. Contributions to the University, Fiscal 2005-2006

The VCU 2020 Strategic Planning:

- “Taking our position among the top research institutions”
 - VCoA has successfully helped secure four grant projects; in one of these VCoA is directing all of the research evaluation.

- “Serving VCU’s many communities”
 - VCoA’s work is addressing both the aging and disabilities communities. Initiatives during this period focused on lifelong learning, employed workers who are family caregivers, training of professionals in geriatrics, aging with lifelong disabilities, and domestic violence against older women.

- “Developing a global presence”
 - VCoA is representing VCU in a continuing pioneering effort to introduce applied educational gerontology in Japan, and is working with colleagues from universities in the U.S. and Japan in planning a related conference to be held in Okinawa in March 2007.

- “Leveraging our strengths and building bridges through interdisciplinary activities”
 - VCoA partnered with 34 units of VCU in calendar 2005 in interdisciplinary training, research, and information sharing.

- “Maintaining VCU as a Model for University/Community Partnerships”
 - 1) VCoA co-maintains the Lifelong Learning Institute in Chesterfield through a partnership with the Brandermill Woods Foundation, Chesterfield County Public Schools, and the Brandermill Woods Retirement Community.
 - 2) VCoA directs the multi-jurisdictional Area Planning and Services Committee (APSC) to address the needs of aging adults with lifelong disabilities and their family caregivers. APSC membership covers Richmond City, Chesterfield, Hanover, and Henrico counties and includes representatives from VCU, agencies in mental retardation, healthcare, parks and recreation, banking, communities of faith, and other sectors, as well as family caregivers.

2. Highlights

Proven Strengths and Progress on Outcomes/Objectives

- VCoA, having contributed substantially to the successful grant application for core federal funding of the Virginia Geriatric Education Center (VGEC) for $2 million (2005-2010), launched a successful campaign in the Virginia General Assembly to introduce a budget bill amendment for continuing support of the VGEC and other geriatric initiatives.
- VCoA maintained its position as the largest provider of Elderhostel programs in Virginia and the 16th largest provider in the U.S. of 1,000 providers, by offering 35 programs in Natural Bridge and Richmond that drew 1060 older learners.
- VCoA's received grant funding from the Department of Criminal Justice Services for a third year to continue its initiative on domestic violence and sexual assault in later life, called V-STOP (Virginia Services, Training, Officers, Prosecution), and received another grant in July 2005 from the Domestic Violence Victim Fund to expand its work against family violence statewide.
- VCoA's co-sponsored Lifelong Learning Institute in Chesterfield (LLI), an educational program for older adults that is administered and operated by its volunteer members and sponsors, offered 105 courses and special events between July 2005-June 2006, registering 346 older learners, an 11% increase over last year.
- VCoA, assisted by many stakeholders, successfully advocated with Governor Warner and key legislators in the House and Senate budget committees to increase by $45,000 the annual appropriation to the Alzheimer's and Related Diseases Research Award Fund, a highly effective seed grant program that VCoA has administered for the Commonwealth since 1982.
- VCoA administers the Alzheimer's and Related Diseases Research Award Fund (known as ARDRAF) for Virginia-based researchers. Since 1982 VCoA has awarded 98 seed grants, averaging just over $14, 000 each in a total outlay of $1.4 Million, which have, in turn, brought back to Virginia over $15.7 Million in larger grants from the likes of the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health, for a return on investment of over $11 for each dollar appropriated.

- VCoA continued as Training Evaluator for the VGEC's three-year (2004-2007) project Recognition, Respect, and Responsibility: Transforming the Direct Service Community that is testing the effects of providing benefits and training interventions on the recruitment and retention of direct service workers.
- VCoA directs the Area Planning and Services Committee for Aging with Lifelong Disabilities (APSC) in metropolitan Richmond, a research-based model strategy to address issues related to the aging of adults with lifelong disabilities. In 2005-2006 the APSC conducted training workshops on "Down syndrome and dementia," and hosted a conference on "Wellness and Lifelong Disabilities" that drew 200 service providers, caregivers, planners, and others.

3. Research and Scholarly Activities

- Five journal articles in refereed professional publications
- Eight presentations at scientific meetings
- Two editorships on professional journals
- One co-development of an international (Okinawa) forum on aging

4. Public/Community Service

- VCoA's Associate Director of Research continues to serve as a Commissioner on the Commonwealth of Virginia Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Commission, which is developing a virtual center on Alzheimer's Disease (AD).
- VCoA, in partnership with more than 15 other organizations, including the American Lung Association of Virginia, CrossOver Ministries, and the Virginia Association of Free Clinics, helped to launch a national initiative in Virginia, Partnership for Prescription Assistance (PPARx) for qualifying patients who lack prescription drug coverage. PPARx brings health care providers, patient advocates, and pharmaceutical companies together to find appropriate public and private patient assistance from among more than 475 patient assistance and 180 pharmaceutical programs.
- VCoA continued its initiative to educate clergy and lay leaders in communities of faith in matters of aging and wellness, conducting programs for older adult ministries in Bon Air, Midlothian, and Richmond, and for chaplains at Johnston-Willis Hospital in Richmond.
- VCoA staff gave substantial services to Virginia's agencies and citizens by serving on the boards of some dozen non-profit organizations, providing leadership, technical assistance, and pro bono services to groups such as the Shepherd's Center of Richmond, the Virginia Quality Healthcare Network, the Alzheimer's Association, the Culture Change Coalition (on long-term care), and the Virginia Elder Rights Coalition.

- VCoA co-sponsors the Lifelong Learning Institute (LLI) in Chesterfield, now firmly established and gaining members during its third year of existence. A voluntary organization, the LLI provides an important presence in Chesterfield County for VCU and VCoA, and a strong partnership association with Brandermill Woods Retirement Center and Foundation, Chesterfield County and Schools, John Tyler Community College, and a number of other organizations, businesses and medical facilities.

5. International Activities

- VCoA is co-directing development of an international forum on aging and quality of life, scheduled for March 1-4, 2007 in Okinawa. Partners include the Nippon Care Fit Service Association, Obirin University in Tokyo, the University of North Texas, and several philanthropic organizations.

6. Challenges in Fiscal Year 2006-2007

- Continuation of long-standing geriatrics training and education programs with which we have been closely affiliated remains uncertain. VCoA initiated a successful effort to secure bi-partisan and bi-cameral budget bill amendments in the Virginia General Assembly to continue the Virginia Geriatric Education Center (VGEC) and the Geriatric Academic Career Award (GACA) programs on biennial appropriations. However, the fate of these programs remains unclear amidst protracted delays in passing a state budget.
- VCoA's Elderhostel program has required constant diligence to administer amidst constant changes in procedure, deadlines, and guidelines prescribed by Elderhostel, Inc. At the same time, Elderhostel, Inc. has failed to develop an effective marketing strategy and competitors grow more numerous for older learners who will pay to travel and learn. VCoA is exploring new content emphases and a new geographic region within which to grow.
- VCoA has devoted considerable effort, with minimal success, to recruiting VCU faculty to teach courses for the Lifelong Learning Institute in Chesterfield County. Lack of a strong VCU presence may jeopardize the LLI's future.

7. Outcomes/Objectives for Fiscal Year 2006-2007

The following outline of 10 objectives for 2006-2007 is organized according to our legislated mandates of interdisciplinary studies, research, and information and resource sharing.

Interdisciplinary Studies

1. VCoA intends to work to secure General Fund support to continue operations of both the Virginia Geriatric Education Center (VGEC) and the Geriatric Academic Career Award (GACA) programs, both eliminated when Congress voted no appropriations nationally for these initiatives, effective the 2006-2007 fiscal year.
2. VCoA intends to leverage its relatively modest human and material resources by collaborating with other organizations in developing meaningful grant proposals for external funding of projects that are consistent with VCoA's mission.
3. VCoA intends to continue its position in addressing domestic violence against older women. This commitment has involved leadership in a regional task force, a growing number of presentations before professionals in adult protective services, three funded V-STOP projects, grant support to focus statewide on family violence, and several grant proposals to broaden awareness of and training related to abuse, exploitation, and violence in later life.
4. VCoA intends to explore the development of new Elderhostel offerings in parts of western Virginia that will capitalize on an emerging Shakespearean theatre scene there. We will also continue to help develop the Lifelong Learning Institute in Chesterfield County whose growth to approximately 120 older learner members has created the base sufficient to initiate targeted curriculum development, membership recruitment, and fund-raising activities.

Research

5. VCoA will continue its administration of, and advocacy for, the Alzheimer's and Related Diseases Research Award Fund (ARDRAF), noting especially practical research findings and the remarkable return on investment, most recently (December 2005) determined to be returning $11 for every $1 of General Fund appropriation.
6. VCoA will continue its evaluation of several partnered projects, including those designed to strengthen the training and retention of long-term care workers, and the relatively new project to assist employers who wish to help their employees who are family caregivers.

7. VCoA's Associate Director of Research, a gubernatorial appointee to the Alzheimer's and Related Disorders Commission, will work to help formulate various ways of leveraging the Commonwealth's diverse expertise in dementia-related issues in order to benefit researchers, practitioners, service providers, educators, and families. The Commission's work on a virtual center is taking shape as a highly innovative means of maximizing resources.

Information and Resource Sharing

8. VCoA intends to continue its leadership in three productive alliances: the Central Virginia Task Force for Older Battered Women and the Virginia Coalition for the Prevention of Elder Abuse, both of which are committed to preventing and responding to violence against older Virginians; and the Area Planning and Services Committee for Aging with Lifelong Disabilities (APSC), dedicated to identifying services and service needs, fostering communication and collaboration among service providers, cross-training on both aging and developmental disabilities, public awareness, and planning for emerging issues.
9. VCoA intends to maintain its extensive involvement on the boards and task forces of several non-profit aging-related organizations, offering pro bono gerontological expertise and technical assistance to the benefit of the elders and families that these organizations serve.
10. VCoA intends to continue to partner with statewide aging-related organizations in order to disseminate research findings and to expand training for professionals across Virginia. VCoA will co-develop and co-sponsor the annual conferences of associations throughout the year as a commitment to this research application.
